

Black Capped Chickadee: The black-capped chickadee was proclaimed as the official bird of New Brunswick in August 1983, following a contest conducted by the provincial Federation of Naturalists. This small bird has a distinctive "chickadee-dee-dee" chirp that gives this bird its name.

